

If people want to be loved, don't they also need to love? From the results I got on this website, I'm not nor will ever be prejudice, I hate everyone. Since fellow man wanted to chastize me, just remember 1 thing, God has the last say and your judgement day will be here soon. Here I thought that a church community was the place to come and not be judged. To make friends, to nurture the word of God together. Boy was my judgement way off.

Laura had the chatroom there for a reason. To ask questions about the days studies. I never ever saw anyone try and do that. Before, during or after the sermons. I will be the first to admit my sin of not opening the Bible like I should. Why? Because I was never taught good study habits. I can't believe that each & every one of those who are at the sermon never spoke up asking questions. Whether it be amongst those listening or towards Reverend Neff.

As soon as the sermon is over, EVERYONE disappears. So, stop the lame excuses that you can't Listen as well as chat during the sermons. Because the chance is and always has been there. Especially afterwards.

Ask yourself: Am I a "True Christian" or am I a "Wanna be Christian". As I see it, no one who goes to the sermon fit either entitlement.
